

IURC Revised Tariff Approval Procedures
Adopted in Cause No. 39983, September 9, 1999

- The revised tariff processes outlined in the IURC's September 9, 1999 Order in Cause No. 39983--Tariff Adoption (section II.A.), Interim Tariff Approval (section II.B.) and Submission of a Proposed Tariff (section II.C.) apply to all CLECs, both facilities-based carriers and bundled resellers.
- Pursuant to the tariff adoption process, a CLEC may adopt another CLEC's tariff or an ILEC's tariff, so long as the tariff to be adopted has been approved by the IURC.
- A CLEC may adopt another carrier's tariff by submitting an affidavit, signed by an officer of the company, that identifies the tariff to be adopted.
- A CLEC may revise the rates in the tariff it seeks to adopt. These rate changes must be attached to the affidavit in the form of a revised price list. In order to adopt another carrier's tariff, the CLEC may only make changes to the rates; if the CLEC seeks to change the terms and conditions, it must submit an original tariff to the IURC for approval.
- If a CLEC submits an original tariff to the IURC, the Commission will provide final approval to the rates contained in the tariff one day after it is filed. The Commission will grant interim approval to the terms and conditions of a CLEC's tariff one day after it is filed. There is no deadline for final approval of the tariff terms and conditions.
- Subsequent changes to the tariff, after it has received initial approval from the IURC (final approval of rates; interim or final approval of terms and conditions), will be processed on a one-day turnaround pursuant to the IURC's earlier orders in Cause No. 39983.
- A CLEC must submit its tariff to the IURC for approval after it has received a CTA from the Commission. Tariffs submitted before the CLEC receives a CTA will not be reviewed by Commission staff for approval, though they may inform the IURC's review of a CTA application.
